1. How does the passage move from examples to a decision?

Look for:

- Describes the organization.

One possible response: It gives easy repairs, introduces safety limits, then advises a careful choice.

2. Why does the writer use does not always instead of never?

Look for:

- Explains the limit to the claim.

One possible response: Some objects are unsafe or badly damaged and need replacement.

Open responses use criteria and an illustrative response. Other well-supported responses can be acceptable.
