1. What role does the writer of A have?

Answer: shop owner

2. What effect does B emphasize?

Answer: noise near home

3. Can both accounts be accurate about different effects?

Look for:

- Avoids treating differing focus as automatic contradiction.

One possible response: Yes. Faster deliveries and more noise can both occur.

4. How may each writer's situation shape the account?

Look for:

- Connects role and focus.

One possible response: The shop owner values delivery; the resident notices home conditions.

5. What evidence could test the reported effects?

Look for:

- Names evidence tied to claims.

One possible response: Delivery records and noise records or additional accounts.

6. Can these fictional accounts prove a real event occurred?

Look for:

- Keeps source status clear.

One possible response: No. They are constructed practice material.
