1. Describe the main problem in the situation.

Look for:

- Identifies the central situation rather than judging the person.

One possible response: A pretend child's tower falls. The child wants to knock over someone else's tower.

2. Name one possible feeling. What detail supports it?

Look for:

- Names a plausible feeling.
- Uses context; different reasonable feelings are acceptable.

One possible response: The child may feel frustrated.

Open responses use criteria and an illustrative response. Other well-supported responses can be acceptable.
